

Gulf Coast slow to recover from Katrina

by gcisnet

The Mississippi Gulf Coast is slowly recovering from Hurricane Katrina. Two bridges are now open. The I-110 and Poppo's Ferry, which is helping the traffic situation.

Three casinos are now open. However many places on the coast of Biloxi and Gulfport are no longer in existence. Many are rebuilding. Dining is a real problem. Many places are not open claiming staff shortages.

(Photo courtesy Gulf Coast Hurricane Center website.)

Many sources of information on the internet and print media are no longer valid

We encourage readers with updates or knowledge of incorrect information to email us at gcis@gcis.biz to submit changes. We endeavor to supply correct information.

More Katrina Information can be found at The Gulf Coast Hurricane Center

Gulf Coast slow to recover from Katrina by gcisnet